'We want the big name stores now'

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PRIMARK and Marks & Spencer stores in Haverhill would help revive the town's retail fortunes, according to a major shopping survey.

The big names were the retailers most frequently mentioned in a survey of more than 1,000 shoppers quizzed in Haverhill to see how the town can attract more retail trade.

Other names were River Island and BHS, while many said improvements were needed to the town's market.

The survey is part of efforts by Haverhill Town Council to curb the flow of shoppers travelling to Cambridge and Bury St Edmunds for their main shopping outings.

A lack of sports, fashion, household goods and children's games stores were also identified by the survey.

Alan Caldwell, vice-chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, said: "Having an M&S store would be great for Haverhill."

"If you don't have big well-known high street names like M&S, people tend to head to the bigger shopping centre where they are. That is bad news for footfall and all those other specialist shops nearby."

"It's all about getting the right balance. You want big shops to generate footfall, but we also need to support smaller stores that Haverhill does very well."

Pupils take art to rail bridge

HAVERHILL youngsters have completed a work of art to brighten up a dingy area under a former railway bridge.

Chalkstone Middle School pupils painted the mural as part of a £2,500 project organised by Jo Ager, Suffolk County Council's extended services development officer.

She said the project began after an approach from the Chalkstone Residents' Association. Artist Kevin Parker worked with 13 Year 7 'gifted and talented' art students.

They had a workshop with the Haverhill History Group to hear about the railway and Mr Parker also helped the youngsters with different art styles.

The mural was painted on wooden panels at the town's Samuel Ward Academy.

Mrs Ager said: "The experience has given the young people a unique opportunity to be a part of a community piece of art. This has not been a curriculum piece and they would not ordinarily have been able to have such an experience."

The cost of the materials and fixing the mural to the wall has been covered by the county council's extended services budget and a donation from Cllr Anne Gower's locality budget.

The group is now looking for local support to produce a plaque to be placed on the wall next to the mural. Anyone willing to sponsor the plaque can contact Mrs Ager on 07843 343807.

Champions: girls from Samuel Ward Academy claimed top spot in last week's inter-school volleyball championships.

All-conquering girls squad celebrates success

A SCHOOL volleyball team has clinched its fourth successive inter-college championship.

Big-hitting Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College blitzed all-comers at the Year 10 School Sports Partnership Tournament at Haverhill Leisure Centre last Wednesday.

Expert set-up play from Jack Vernon and James Percy allowed attackers Vitor Calheiros, Tom Pinker and captain Keegan Ayre to pick their spots at will against all opponents from schools, including Samuel Ward Academy and Great Cornard Upper School and Technology College.

The talented team is now hoping to gain regional and even national honours next year.

Rob Dovaston, team leader for PE at the Castle Partnership of Schools (Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College, Castle Hill Middle School, and Place Farm Primary School), said: "I have worked with this team since they were in Year 7 at Castle Hill.

"It is a fantastic demonstration of how the continuity that comes out of all-through education can really work to the benefit of young people."

Chamber to dish up new business

STUDENTS from Haverhill Young Chamber of Commerce will be celebrating the opening of the new Castle Manor Young Chamber Bistro next week.

The bistro will allow students to practise the skills gained on their catering courses by working in a business environment.

They have already received high praise when they have catered for chamber and other business events.

A proportion of the profits from the bistro will go back into the Young Chamber to fund new projects.

The rest will be reinvested in the venture.

The opening coincides with the annual Young Chamber of Commerce Update and Business Networking event where students will brief local businesses on the activities of the Young Chamber and how business and enterprise education is changing.

Business guests will then be able to sample the food from the bistro.

Sarah Howard, chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, said: "This is a fantastic achievement for Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College and students who are part of the Young Chamber."

"It was set up to promote links with business, raise aspirations and employability skills, and bring the youth voice to the fore in local issues."

Matt Bryant, business and enterprise specialist at Castle Manor, praised the work of the members of Young Chamber.

He said: "It is great to see the work of many enterprising members of the Young Chamber, past and present, come to fruition and provide a way for greater numbers of their peers to develop the knowledge, skills and aptitudes they will need to be successful in their future."

Petition submitted over research site

PLANS for an £8 million research park in Haverhill have come under fire from residents.

People living in Hanchett End submitted a 49-name petition against plans for the town's western fringe at a public consultation launched by developers Carisbrooke Investments.

Among their concerns were the suitability of the site, the buffer zone between homes and the proposed development and the cycle path, which they feared might become a hot-spot for anti-social behaviour by youths.

Other respondents to the eight-day consultation at the Days Inn, Haverhill, said the proposed development was in the wrong location, should be used for housing and there were also concerns expressed over traffic congestion on the A1307.

But Nic Rumsey, director of Carisbrooke, said the Haverhill Research Park would be an excellent "gateway to the town" and hoped modern and superior architecture would represent the entrepreneurial spirit of Haverhill.

He said: "This plan is an environmentally, economically and socially sustainable development.

"The Haverhill Research Park will contribute economically to Haverhill, creating jobs and business. Our ambition is for this to be a joint public and private partnership."

The revised Masterplan will be presented for agreement of the St Edmundsbury Borough Council, which has loaned the scheme £750,000, on April 5.

If the plans are accepted and outline planning application is approved this year, it is anticipated that the first occupants of the Haverhill Research Park could be in by spring 2013.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestofhaverhill, added: "Nic's presentation to an audience of local businesses and organisations was well received.

"The feedback from the event was that the local business community was excited at the opportunities that the project could bring to the town, both in terms of potential employment and raising the profile of Haverhill."

Red noses all round for Comic Relief...

A CHILDREN'S activity centre raised almost £150 for Comic Relief by organising a weekend of fun-filled events.

Staff at Cheeky Chimps Funhouse dressed in their pyjamas, baked cakes and held a raffle to support the popular BBC charity and raised £145 in total.

Children at the indoor play area in Boundary Road, Haverhill, also painted their faces to join in the fun.

Centre co-owner Nikki Hind said: "Everyone really enjoys Red Nose and we kept the activities going over Saturday and Sunday too.

"Some children even painted their own faces and it was lovely to see everyone having so much fun."

Meanwhile, staff and members of Haverhill Leisure Centre trekked the 100km in one day that celebrities completed in five days during the Comic Relief Desert Trek.

But instead of combating the heat, they used cross-trainers and treadmills to complete the feat.

Shoppers call for big names

As well as working with Tesco PR guru Professor Andrew Fearn, Haverhill Town Council is also looking to employ a student from Kent Business School to create strategies to retain shoppers, such as a town centre loyalty card scheme.

It is asking St Edmundsbury Borough Council to allocate it £1,000, so a suitable student could be hired to do such work – instead of a consultant who would cost four times as much.

Other possible initiatives could include setting up Haverhill shopper focus groups to monitor the quality of retail experience in the town and working more closely with the town's chamber of commerce.

Plans back in for retail park

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

REVISED plans for a £12 million retail and business park in Haverhill have been re-submitted by developers.

Based around a new Wickes builders' merchant, the shopping centre in Ehringshausen Way will include three retail warehouse outlets, nine smaller trade warehouses, 11 'starter units' for local businesses and a fast-food restaurant.

Developers, Cambridge-based HPG Development, estimate the project will create 250 jobs.

As reported in the Weekly News, original plans for the park were turned down by St Edmundsbury Borough Council last October over fears the new businesses could hit town centre trade.

The council's planning committee is expected to reconsider the plans at the end of next month.

HPG Development director

New look: an artist's impression of the retail and business park.

William Jewson said: "The new retail units we are proposing will be strictly limited to bulky goods, which will complement, rather than compete with, the town centre.

"This will improve the quality and diversity of retail provision in the town and, by helping encourage more people to shop locally, help stimulate further improvement to the town centre.

"We've worked hard to address concerns raised about our earlier scheme.

"As a result, the proposals now on the table offer not only huge benefits for Haverhill, but also the best development possible for this gateway site for the town and economy."

The firm has also pledged £250,000 towards improvements to the town centre and transfer of land at the rear of the derelict site to a county wildlife site.

Mr Jewson added: "These new regeneration proposals demonstrate our long-standing commitment to working with the borough council to deliver much-needed investment to Haverhill."

The Rosie records rise in twin births

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The number of twins born at The Rosie has almost doubled in just eight years, the Weekly News can reveal.

Figures show 107 twins and three sets of triplets were born at the Cambridge maternity hospital last year, compared to 59 multiple births in 2002.

The boom in twins meant the hospital's twinning rate of 18.1 was significantly above the national average of 16 multiple births per 1,000 – reaching 20 per 1,000 in 2006 and 2007.

Doctors believe the boom is explained by several factors, including more older mothers in Cambridgeshire, the proximity of Bourn Hall IVF fertility clinic and that many mums-to-be

'yes' and that's how we found out."

Victoria added: "It was a surprise but a really lovely one."

However, the surge in multiple births has put extra pressure on the maternity hospital, which delivered almost 5,800 births last year.

Dr Ralph Robinson, former consultant obstetrician and gynaecologist at the Rosie, said: "Twins are bad news, from a clinical point of view."

"They are more likely to be born prematurely, will require more ante-natal and post-natal care and are usually born by caesarean section."

"Identical twins can often share a circulation system, which can pose risks during later stages of pregnancy too."

"Family breakdown is much higher among parents of twins or triplets. Looking after one baby is a big task, so having two can be a real strain."

"It was a surprise but a really lovely one."

– Victoria Thompson

"However, I have two grandchildren who are twins and they are wonderful."

Work on the new £30 million extension to the Rosie, which began in November, will increase the number of cots from 33 to 58, with extra spaces for the sickest children born prematurely.

The Weekly News is asking its readers to help us raise £500,000 towards the new building, which will help buy top-of-the-range equipment and furniture.

Leisure centre hosts Sunday club

A NEW Sunday club for people with physical and learning disabilities has opened at Haverhill Leisure Centre.

The West Suffolk Tigers Family Multisport Club will take place every Sunday from 3pm to 4.30pm.

The club aims to introduce people of all ages with physical and learning disabilities to a variety of sporting activities under the guidance of qualified instructors.

Sports will differ each week including wheelchair basketball, table tennis, swimming, archery, and multisport.

Sessions cost £1 and are run by Abbeycroft Leisure in conjunction with partners Activities Unlimited, Suffolk Sport, South West Suffolk School Sports Partnership and Optua.

Michelle Banfield-Curran, Abbeycroft's sports development officer, said: "We want to run fun family events for those who have a disability and their friends and family, encouraging everyone to be active."

The club is aimed at families but anyone with a physical and learning disability can attend on their own and support for them will be available.

For more information, contact Michelle Banfield-Curran on 07983 641196 or email mbc@acleisure.com

Bank staff help in Scout hut revamp

KIND-hearted bank staff gave up a weekend to paint, clean and repair a Scout hut.

Led by operations manager John Sprigg, employees from Barclays' Haverhill branch worked tirelessly to refurbish the Colne Valley headquarters of the Scout and Guide Associations.

Local guide and Scout leaders also joined the DIY efforts.

Brownie Guider Barbara Adshead said: "Everyone worked really hard and we are so grateful to Barclays for thinking of us."

"We are often forgotten when it comes to local good causes but we are still there serving many local young people every week."

"No one is turned away from Scouting and Guiding and we really appreciated what Barclays have done for us."

"An enormous 'good turn' was done over the weekend and we are really pleased with the result."

"Thank you also to Tesco, who provided the refreshments and Focus who helped with paint."

Watch and stereo go in burglary

BURGLARS struck at a house in Haverhill while the owners were away.

The thieves broke into a house and shed in Chivers Road at some point between 11pm on March 3 and 1.30pm on March 16, and stole a watch and a stereo.

If you have any information regarding this incident, contact Pc Matthew Dale at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Discover magic of marketing

ADVERTISING expert Stuart Bowell will talk about the industry in Haverhill next week. Mr Bowell will tell Haverhill History Group, which meets at the town's arts centre, how successful brands make their mark and how consumers are persuaded by clever marketing. The meeting will be held next Wednesday at 7.30pm.

Admission is free to members and £2 for visitors. Refreshments will be available.

Teen attacked at superstore

A 16-YEAR-OLD suffered a broken nose in an attack outside a Haverhill supermarket. Police are appealing for information about the assault outside the Tesco superstore, in Cangle Road, Haverhill, last Thursday at about 7pm. Anyone with any information about this incident should contact Pc Andrew Green at Haverhill police station on (01284) 774100 and quote reference number HH/11/592.

Lent and lunch date at church

A LENT lunch will take place at a Haverhill church tomorrow. The soup-and-roll lunch at St Mary's Church at 12.30pm will follow a short service at noon. The service and lunch will be held at the Mill Road church every Friday throughout Lent.

Bus pass axe sparks anger from parents

ANGRY parents have slammed plans to axe subsidised bus passes for children travelling from Haverhill to nearby faith schools.

With no Catholic school in Haverhill, about 130 children travel each day to St Louis Middle and St Benedict's Upper, in Bury St Edmunds.

But plans by Suffolk County Council to scrap subsidised bus passes from September could hit many families hard.

With the 'third child free' scheme also to go, the cost to a family of three children is set to rise more than £1,500 a year – from £780 to £2,340.

Parents met county councillor Anne Gower at Haverhill Library on Saturday to discuss the controversial changes.

Eleanor Davison, from Parents Against Public Transport Cuts Haverhill, said: "These proposed cuts and additional charges effectively put a stop to parental choice for those of a lower or lower-middle income."

"Those who send their children to the Roman Catholic schools in Bury usually have very strong religious reasons for doing so."

"Many families will be unable to afford to send their children to their nearest faith school. The cuts also affect children travelling to Bury St Edmunds from Sudbury and Newmarket.

"Currently, some 500 students travel to the Catholic Pyramid schools in Bury St Edmunds, around 130 of these from Haverhill and surrounding areas."

"Particular concerns have been expressed for those students in the middle of their GCSE/A-level courses."

"There are also grave concerns about the change because, if parents start to withdraw their children, there would be concerns for the schools' future in the long term."

The plans are part of cuts by Suffolk County Council of £125 million over the next four years, which will include the loss of 1,500 council jobs and the outsourcing of virtually all services.

Under current arrangements, the county council has an obligation to provide free home-to-school transport for children aged between 11 and 16, whose parents have expressed a preference for a faith school and who live more than two miles, but no more than 15 miles, from their school.

The Explorer Card used by some families is also to be axed on April 1, while the 945 bus route, currently run by Mulley's, is up for tender in June.

Concerned parents have been lobbying their MPs and county councillors and signing online petitions during the consultation period, which ends tomorrow.

Children will pay for bus cutbacks

Sir, Suffolk County Council would like to cut the subsidised transport being offered to pupils of St Louis School in Newmarket (and St Joseph's, Sudbury and St Felix, Haverhill) that takes them to the linked middle and upper schools in Bury St Edmunds.

Readers may consider that any "subsidy" towards a faith school system is unfair, but they should be aware that this bus subsidy pales against the large subsidies paid into these faith schools, year on year, by the diocese.

In other words, the generous donations of parishioners are the main subsidy for these schools, saving the taxpayers money. But we also need to think through the consequences of the council's proposal. Many parents will struggle on, paying large sums to get their children to their middle and upper schools any way they can.

Children will be put at risk walking the streets on dark evenings to take public transport. Others will be driven, adding 100 or more cars to the congestion in central Bury twice a day instead of a few buses, with the linked pollution and carbon emissions.

As and when parents find they cannot afford the time or cost of this new routine, children's education will be disrupted in all schools as they are moved from one to another mid-term, affecting class sizes and teaching schedules. And just one tragedy – a road accident or some abuse incident – will cost the council and taxpayer far more in terms of medical or legal action than their proposed £160,000 saving. Take that out of chief executive Andrea Hill's £220,000 salary and she would still be earning more than most of us, and hundreds of children's education could continue undisturbed.

College actors put on top show

Sir, A very big thank you to Stoke College for the invite to the performance on March 10 to see the Stoke College Production of Romeo & Juliette.

It was an excellent adaptation – we enjoyed it immensely and would like to express our thanks for the opportunity to see the show. The students displayed good talent and must be congratulated on this also.

Thanks to all those involved in putting on this production on – well done.

She said: "This was taken at the Haverhill Police Station. It was a cycle coding session. The special constable to the left is Peter Farnham the one to the right looks like Eldon Mackridge."

Mr Mackridge also wrote in. He said: "The occasion was a cycle 'postcoding' session at Haverhill Police Station's yard in Swan Lane, Haverhill. These sessions were normally held just after Christmas to postcode Christmas present cycles. "I was a Special Constable and I'm on the right, kneeling down. I cannot identify the other officer. "I cannot date exactly the picture, but it must be in the late 1980s. "In those days cycles

Search begins for your sports heroes

A PARALYMPIAN from Haverhill was on hand to launch the 2011 St Edmundsbury Sports Awards at the town's leisure centre on Monday.

Caroline Maclean, who was named Sports Personality of the Year at last year's ceremony, officially opened the nominations for 2011 at the centre in Ehringhausen Way.

The annual awards are run to recognise outstanding sporting achievements made by men, women and juniors throughout the year, and to celebrate sport across the borough.

Caroline plays women's wheelchair basketball for Great Britain and has competed in Paralympic Games in Sydney, Athens and Beijing.

Warren Smyth, chief executive of organisers Abbeycroft Leisure, said: "Caroline's achievements as an athlete are amazing. Her successes are well known in Haverhill and she fully deserved to win Sports Personality of the Year in 2010.

"We hope this year's sports awards will highlight the achievements of more sports men and women in the borough who, like Caroline, are pushing themselves to achieve personal goals in their chosen sport."

The award scheme is open to all sports enthusiasts and volunteers affiliated to a club or school team in the borough, and also to sporting stars who live in St Edmundsbury.

The 12 categories are: sports personality, young sports personality, unsung hero, lifetime achievement, triumph over adversity, coach, contribution to disability sport, young community volunteer, club, senior team, junior team, and school of the year.

Time to meet the ancestors

TRACE your family history at an information event in Haverhill on Sunday.

Inspired by the current census, members of Haverhill Family History Group are holding an event at the town's library from 10am to 2pm to review past census results.

Using the library's computers, experts will help you trace your family's ancestry back to the first census taken in 1841.

To find out more about your family's history there are also free sessions at the Camps Road library every Wednesday afternoon.

For further details or to book a place only on a Wednesday afternoon, call in at the library or phone (01440) 702638.

MP delves into grassroots issues

WEST Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock visited Haverhill last Friday to chat to schoolchildren about politics and to meet a local community group.

After starting the day by meeting the chief executive of Suffolk Primary Care Trust, Dr Paul Watson, at Clements Surgery in Greenfields Way to discuss NHS services in the area, the Conservative politician headed to Castle Hill Middle School to have a question and answer session with Year 8 pupils.

The students, who studied democracy in their Dying for the Vote lessons, toured Westminster recently and quizzed their member of parliament on all things political.

Mr Hancock answered questions on Libya, youth unemployment, academy schools and coalition politics.

History teacher Jackie Betts, who organised the event, said: "The students were quite political and were beginning to understand that politics affects everybody."

"I think they gained an appreciation of why people throughout history have demanded the vote."

"It was a fairly tough probing, but Mr Hancock spoke to the children more informally over coffee afterwards and spoke to children who did not have time to ask their questions."

Mr Hancock's next stop was to meet Henry Wilson, project manager of REACH community group, at Haverhill Food Bank in the Lime Grove Estate to see the work REACH do to help local people with debt issues.

REACH – which stands for restore, encourage, active involvement in the community bringing hope – was launched over a year ago with the aims of relieving poverty, increasing community cohesion and engagement, and encouraging family well-being.

Mr Hancock met a number of volunteers who help organise the food and packing at the food bank, and make sure the less fortunate are catered for.

Mr Wilson then took his guest to the REACH

Resource Centre in the Clements Estate in Haverhill. The centre gives REACH volunteers time to meet people with debt problems in private and welcoming surroundings, and talk them through specific issues.

Mr Hancock said: "REACH plays an important role in the Haverhill community. I pay tribute to the volunteers' selfless work in improving the quality of people's lives."

Mum jailed for smuggling bid

A MOTHER of four caught trying to smuggle drugs into a prison has been jailed.

Lindsey Horton, 31, was jailed for eight months after she was spotted on CCTV at Highpoint prison near Haverhill as she passed a £5 wrap of cannabis to her former partner in the visitors' area.

Horton, of Lowestoft, admitted taking an illegal substance into a prison.

Naomi Turner, prosecuting at Ipswich Crown Court, said Horton was arrested after she was spotted handing over the wrap on the prison CCTV on November 1.

She admitted what she had done, although the cannabis was never found by prison staff.

She passed the drug to James Pollard, her former partner, who was serving a two-and-a-half year sentence for handling stolen goods.

The court heard that Horton had a previous conviction for cultivating cannabis and two cautions for being in possession of the drug.

Paul Forshaw, in mitigation, said: "This is a sad case where one moment of sheer stupidity put Miss Horton's liberty at risk."

Previous requests for the supply of cannabis and a mobile phone had been resisted by Horton but on this occasion she gave in, said Mr Forshaw.

He said Horton, who works as a part-time barmaid and cleaner, has four children aged between 3 and 10.

On Boxing Day she was the victim of a serious assault which resulted in her arm being repaired with a metal plate and dozens of stitches.

Last call for coastal charity cyclists

GET fit and raise money for the British Heart Foundation on the charity's 50th birthday.

With the Cam to Coast cycle ride taking place in less than two weeks, it is a great time to get on your bike for a good cause.

In Saturday's cycle challenge, riders will pedal 74 miles from Jesus

Green in Cambridge to East Beach, Shoeburyness, in Southend.

There is also a 10-mile stretch, again starting at Jesus Green, but finishing at Whittlesey, to suit those unprepared for the full 74-mile trip.

Melanie Blackman, event organiser at the British Heart Foundation

(BHF), said: "Come and help the BHF celebrate their 50th anniversary and help to save lives."

The 74-mile ride costs £20 to enter, and children must be 14 to take part. The shorter ride costs £5, children can enter for free, and the price includes a T-shirt, medal and water.

The organisers are encouraging riders to pledge to raise at least £50 in sponsorship.

Registration on the day begins at Jesus Green at 7am, and riders will set off between 7.30am and 9am. To sign up in advance, visit www.bhf.org.uk or call 0800 100 21 09.

King's here so get ready to swing

SWING king Duncan Galloway will lead an all-star night of jazz music next month.

Jazz singer Duncan, who lives in Haverhill, will front an eight-piece band at Haverhill Arts Centre on Sunday, April 10 at 7.30pm.

Duncan, the lead singer of the world famous Pasadena Roof Orchestra, will welcome acclaimed musicians Enrico Tomasso (Ray Gelato, Acker Bilk, Pasadena Roof Orchestra), Tom 'Spats' Langham (The Temperance Seven, Mary Grosz, The Swedish Jazz Kings) and Colin Good, the musical director for Bryan Ferry, and five other top musicians.

Tickets cost £14 (£12.50 concessions) and can be booked by calling (01440) 714140 or at www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk

Choral group puts on coffee and cake

CHORAL singers will hold a coffee morning in Haverhill on Saturday. The Haverhill Choral Society will be serving teas, coffees and cakes in the café room next to Haverhill Library, near Camps Road, from 10am to 1pm. There will also be a raffle and jewellery sale, while practices will continue for their forthcoming concert on April 9.

The event will take place in the Old Independent Church, Hamlet Road, Haverhill and will include Requiem by Faure, Five Mystical Songs by Vaughan Williams, Easter Hymn by Mascagni and Verdi's Chorus of the Hebrew Slaves.

Thriving: the group is getting ready for its first big competition.

Majorettes set their sights on winning ways

A MIXTURE of dance, cheerleading and baton twirling has made a return to Haverhill in the shape of a new majorette group.

The class has gone from strength to strength since it was set up by two enthusiasts at Chalkstone Community Centre in Millfields.

Leanne Freestone and Louise Thacker were members of New Image majorettes in Haverhill more than a decade ago before it broke up and they went their separate ways.

Leanne said: "We met up last year and decided it was a good time to set something up in Haverhill together."

The group has 16 members aged 6 to 23 and meets on Sundays at the centre from 10am-1pm. It is now preparing for its first weekend competition in Clacton in May. To join or find out more, call Leanne on 07813 438171.

Fundraisers make call to sumo runners

SUMO-suited charity runners in Haverhill will hold a minute's silence to remember tsunami victims in Japan.

Fundraisers taking part in St Nicholas Hospice's first-ever Sumo Run will take a moment before the race on May 2 to recall those affected by March 11 catastrophe.

The event will be held at Haverhill Recreation Ground, which will be transformed into a sea of sumo wrestlers walking, jogging, running, waddling, shuffling and wobbling their way around the one-mile course.

Jenny Baskett, events and challenges fundraiser, said: "The suits may not be the most flattering attire, but they cover a multitude of sins."

"This is not a time to be self-conscious – instead throw vanity to the wind, sign up and join the ranks of sponsored sumos preparing for what will be a very whacky race."

"This is the hospice's first ever sumo run, so we are hoping for people with a sense of adventure and fun to take part."

Entry costs £20 and each participant must raise a minimum of £80 sponsorship. Each runner will get to keep their own sumo suit, which are also welcome to accessorise – perhaps with a tutu or a cape or two!

To sign up, call Jenny on (01284) 715583, email fundraising@stnh.org.uk or register online at www.stnicholashospice.org.uk

Fire crews to join City rally

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

FIREFIGHTERS are stepping up their campaign against cuts planned in Suffolk.

Part of the cuts includes proposed service reductions at Haverhill fire station.

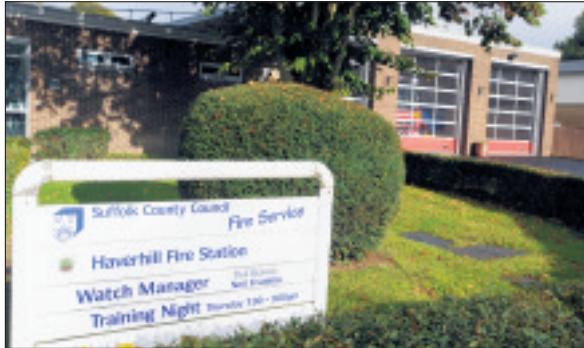

Haverhill is currently covered by firefighters seven days a week, but the cuts could reduce full-time cover to five days.

Four jobs could also go.

Andy Message, a Haverhill-based firefighter who is also acting secretary of the Suffolk branch of the Fire Brigades Union, has also highlighted a proposed reduction in fire safety inspections.

He said: "Fewer inspections will mean more chance of dangerous breaches of fire safety regulations, putting the public at risk, and will mean less chance of those ignorant or unscrupulous owners getting found out or prosecuted for offences such as locking fire exits and blocking escape routes."

Currently, Suffolk's fire safety officers conduct around 1,500

Fighting the cuts: crews will join in this weekend's rally in London to protest against cuts to Suffolk's fire service.

inspections a year, follow up complaints made by the public and advise on plans for new buildings.

Andy Vingoe, Suffolk FBU chairman, said: "The fire safety department provide vital support for owners and managers of premises."

"This cut will mean Suffolk County Council has less resilience in helping people stop fires in the first place at the same time as they are cutting the frontline resources to respond to 999 fire calls. This is a recipe for disaster."

Fire crews from Suffolk will be joining the London march and rally organised by the TUC on Saturday to protest at Government and council spending cuts.

Others will be speaking to shoppers in Felixstowe where cuts are planned.

A county council consultation is under way and details are available at www.suffolk.gov.uk/IRMP or at the FBU Facebook page, Stop Suffolk Fire Cuts.

partnership: Phoebe Buckley with Jimmy.

The eventful life of a Gypsy horsewoman

The sport of eventing has long been associated with the rich and elite; Britain's last world champion was Zara Phillips, granddaughter of the Queen, no less.

But one horsewoman who regularly competes at Burghley and adminton Horse Trials most definitely isn't from the landed gentry. Phoebe Buckley is a Romany Gypsy, who grew up riding bareback.

Now based at the Ely Eventing Centre in Little Downham, the 26-year-old looks after and competes on 13 horses for different owners, and two of her own, Gordon and Colin. "I called him Colin because when I got him he was so boring," says Phoebe with a grin, as she grooms his glossy coat.

She also teaches to earn extra cash, as keeping her horses is so expensive. "I only do it because I love it," she says. "If I had any sense I'd do something different."

But Phoebe was destined to ride. Growing up in her parents' mobile home in Willingham, she was surrounded by horses.

"My dad always had them – Gypsies just do – so that was how I started," says Phoebe, pointing to a photograph of her as a 9-year-old riding bareback. "That stallion was unbroken as well!"

"It's so funny; you think about how safety-conscious people are now, and my dad was just like 'off you go', in a 40-acre field. I remember falling off quite a bit, but you just get back on and learn to hang on tighter," she grins.

"Now I'm known for – touch wood – not falling

Bullied at school for being the only Gypsy in her class, Phoebe Buckley now regularly rubs shoulders with royalty as a champion horsewoman. Here she talks to feature writer EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM off very often, and I think that's why; because I learned to hang on for dear life without a saddle."

But Phoebe, an only child, was alone in her hobby. Her Gypsy friends were, she says, "much more into girly stuff. Riding wasn't the ladylike thing to do; I was probably quite a tomboy, and from really young I didn't mix with other Gypsies very much because of it."

By the age of 11, she was determined to learn properly and "nagged and nagged" her parents until they let her have weekly riding lessons. Soon after, they bought her a pony, Misty.

"We got her from Cambridge Horse Sales for about 200 quid, and she was absolutely foul," laughs Phoebe. "She bucked me off all the time and nearly put me off because she was so horrible. But then I got an upgrade to Spice, who was fantastic."

It was on Spice that Phoebe entered her first gymkhana – and entered a whole new world. Surrounded by Arabellas and Lucindas, the class difference went right over her head, but her father spotted it straight away.

"We'd bought this trailer off a local and I was so proud of it. And we'd bought this really cheap saddle; the leather had split, and my mum had stitched it up with black cotton.

"I thought I was the bee's knees, but Dad said we got there and there were obviously very smart ponies and people with lots of money. And he said to himself 'Christ alive, she isn't going to stand a chance!'"

He was wrong – Phoebe came a respectable third. "Dad was really proud, and thought 'well maybe it isn't all about what you've got, it's about what your pony does'.

"And he's right. It doesn't matter how smart your lorry or saddle is; if your horse doesn't want to do it on the day, he won't!"

"I was really played off against Zara Phillips a couple of years ago. Zara's really fun; she's absolutely brilliant. But if Colin, for instance, decided he didn't want to go eventing, it wouldn't matter if I rode him or if Zara rode him; he has no concept of how important she is."

Destined to ride: Phoebe riding bareback at the age of 9. Right, Phoebe in action.

Known for being able to calm the feistiest horses, Phoebe puts her skills down to her patience – and an affinity with being unhappy.

"There have been times when I haven't been treated particularly kindly by people," she admits.

"I was terribly bullied at school, really badly bullied. I was chubby and ugly, and I was one of those kids who desperately tried to be cool, so therefore I was really uncool!"

Phoebe laughs at the memory, but it was clearly a painful time. As the only Gypsy in her class at Cottenham Village College, she was teased mercilessly and was once even locked in an industrial bin.

"It's really hard, because you try and defend yourself, but kids are so cruel – they have no idea. So I just left."

Leaving school at the age of 13 wasn't uncommon for Gypsies, although Phoebe admits she now wishes she'd stayed to get some qualifications. "But actually I was so wrapped up in the horses that it would have fizzled out, because that was all I wanted to do."

It was at this point that Phoebe met Toni and Tania Liddle, who ran a yard breaking in racehorses for Henry Cecil. They'd spotted Phoebe riding as they hacked past and, impressed by her skills, offered her a job. "Toni was basically my mentor and made me what I am, really," she says.

Phoebe worked there until the age of 18, when she briefly returned to the Gypsy world. "I probably wanted to do the things that 18-year-olds want to do, and have a bit of a life outside the horses," she explains.

"I had a nice time, but I was still very much thinking 'this isn't the life for me.' I certainly wouldn't have wanted to get married; I was too used to my independence."

Phoebe describes herself as a Romany Gypsy rather than a traveller. "There's a massive difference; it doesn't really bother me but it gets my dad really upset!" she smiles.

"The Romany Gypsies are people who were brought up in wagons. They're quiet and polite, and keep themselves to themselves. But travellers are more like what's been on My Big Fat Gypsy Wedding."

She's referring, of course, to the hugely popular Channel 4 series, in which brides from the travelling community donned colossal, frothy wedding dresses that would make a Disney princess blanch. Did she watch the show?

"Yeah, and if I ever wore anything like that, I would still be locked in my room now!" she laughs.

"My family certainly wouldn't wear things like that; it's a real Irish thing. That whole series was about the Irish; it should really have been called My Big Fat Irish Gypsy Wedding; they're really over-the-top and in your face," she explains.

"It was really good telly, but it has to be taken with a massive pinch of salt."

But it is true, she says, that Gypsy girls dream of getting married and having babies. Most marry in their teens, and her friends are all now mums. "They thought I was absolutely crackers because I didn't want kids – I still don't," she says.

Instead, Phoebe's babies are her horses, and eventing is her life. Rather like an equestrian triathlete, it's a triple-hander made up of dressage, show jumping and – Phoebe's favourite – cross country ("I'm a real adrenaline junkie," she says).

She has been hugely successful too: crowned National Under 25 Champion in 2005, Phoebe went on to win gold at the Young Rider European Championships in Sweden.

But with truly great horses costing more than £150,000, Phoebe is realistic about her future.

"I'd love to think I was good enough to be world number one, but because our sport is so money-orientated, I don't think I'll have the financial backing," she says. "Senior teams, medals, the Olympics would all be nice, but it's all about luck."

In the meantime, Phoebe will carry on eventing against her wealthy competitors, insisting that their moneyed background doesn't bother her: "No no, not at all! At the top of the sport, it doesn't matter how rich you are. Everybody knows you're there through luck, hard work and determination."

And what about her Gypsy friends; do they look up to her? "I'm not sure I've done anything for them to look up to," she says, modestly. "But I think certainly they've got respect for the fact that I earn my own money."

"One of my cousins, who's married with a couple of kids, said it must be so nice not to have to ask for money. Because they're housewives, they don't have any income."

"I don't have to ask anybody for anything, so that would be quite a culture shock for me, to suddenly have to rely on somebody."

And sure enough, her boyfriend of five years, who's from a non-travelling background, has asked her to move in with him. "But I'm dragging my feet," she smiles, before climbing on to Colin and trotting away.

Cut in petrol duty is 'boost'

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

WEST Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock has welcomed plans to cut fuel duty by 1p.

Mr Hancock, who is Chancellor George Osborne's chief of staff, said the decision to cut fuel duty immediately and postpone a 4p a litre petrol hike would please many of his constituents.

He said: "In the run up to the Budget, the overwhelming demand I heard across West Suffolk was for help for families and businesses with the cost of fuel.

"The Chancellor has delivered more than I could have hoped for.

"And with everyone able to earn another £600 before they start paying tax, on top of the £1000 already announced, that's up to £325 extra in the pocket – very welcome.

"In terms of supporting the economy, today's budget is extremely strong.

"The focus on enterprise and growth opens up huge opportunities to the people of West Suffolk – particularly given our proximity to Cambridge and Norwich, both of which have research centres that will benefit from infrastructure projects.

"The emergency budget 'rescue mission' of last June secured the foundations of our economy, and today Britain has been given the tools to build on them. I know that the measures will benefit small businesses across my constituency, and I welcome them wholeheartedly."

Meanwhile, charities such as St Nicholas Hospice Care received good news from Mr Osborne's budget.

Changes to Gift Aid mean small donations – including those put in collection pots or charity buckets – will now qualify for Gift Aid tax relief, up to an annual threshold.

The hospice will no longer have to obtain signed Gift Aid declarations on the first £5,000 of small donations to qualify for the 25 per cent tax relief, instead, Gift Aid will be automatically applied.

"When you put a donation in a St Nicholas Hospice Care collection box, you know it will now work even harder for the charity," said Georgina Carr, individual giving manager.

"This, along with other changes announced in the Budget, are good news for charities. We hope they will encourage people to give to St Nicholas Hospice Care."

In another change, the Gift Aid benefit limit is being increased from £500 to £2,500. This, according to the Government, will give charities more leeway to persuade wealthy individuals to give more.

The Government has also pledged to explore how to increase the take-up of payroll giving, mileage rate claims are being extended to include volunteers travelling in charity vehicles, and an online system for filing Gift Aid Claims will be introduced by 2013.

Cash-strapped council defends £1,400 photos

A COUNCIL which is making £42 million cuts has defended spending more than £1,400 on photographs of the chief executive and councillors.

Suffolk County Council, which is shutting the household waste site in Newmarket in May to save money, said the photographs were taken in 2009 – before the current round of cuts.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A spokesman also denied that the pictures were only of £218,000-a-year chief executive Andrea Hill, who formerly worked at Cambridge City Council and Bedfordshire County Council.

He said: "It is true to say that the figure of £1474.74 for photography supplied in a recent Freedom of Information request was assigned to the name of the chief executive.

"Unfortunately, and on reflection, that was misleading.

"The actual invoice supplied by the photographer shows that £1474.74 was the total figure charged for two separate pieces of work on June 25 and July 3, 2009.

"The work also included portraits of 14 councillors, the election of the chair and vice chair of the council and coverage of a community seminar.

"It is entirely wrong to suggest £1474.74 was spent solely on photographs of Andrea Hill."

Champions: band musical director Mark Ager with the regional brass band trophy. CP

Silver band in the finals!

BRASS band Haverhill Silver will compete in the national band finals after triumphing against the best in the south-east.

The acclaimed musical ensemble beat a field of 17 bands in the London and Home Counties championships, in Stevenage, on Sunday.

Playing Carnaval Romain, by Berlioz, the band won first place and qualified for the national finals, which will be held in Cheltenham in September.

Good aggregate points for the past two years also means the band will be promoted once more to the Championship section for 2012.

Band secretary Richard Pannell said: "The band could, in theory, now be up against Black Dyke, Grimethorpe and Brighouse and Rastrick."

WARNING:
Freeview* viewers will lose TV channels at switchover

Keep this, it might be useful

30 March
13 April

To get your channels back, just remember to re-tune your digital TV equipment on or after 30 March and again on or after 13 April. You can do this using your remote.

Switchover dates vary depending on where you live. To check your dates, enter your postcode at digitaluk.co.uk or call 08456 50 50 50.

How to re-tune using your TV remote

Switch on your Freeview TV or box and press 'menu' on the remote control.

Select the 'set up' or 'installation' option then 'first time installation' option (sometimes called 'factory reset', 'full re-tune' or 'default settings').

Press 'OK' if your equipment asks if you want to delete all your channels. Don't worry, this is normal.

If you are prompted for a code, try 0000 or 1234. Channels will be automatically installed. Your equipment may shut down and restart.

These instructions are a guide only. Product specific instructions can be found at digitaluk.co.uk/retuning.

For more information on re-tuning call 08456 50 50 50 get set for digital

*Includes BT Vision or Top Up TV equipment. Any sets receiving satellite and cable TV will not be affected by this change. Calls are free for BT customers within inclusive calling plans. Call charges from other providers may vary.

Musical road trip, with jazz

In his first national tour of a major new work, Europa, Courtney Pine creates a powerful statement that reflects the vibrancy, innovation and spirit of the continent of his birth.

Pine arrived on the British music scene in 1987 with one plan: to take jazz music to a wider audience. His self-determination, drive and research took him beyond British shores and deep into the European continent where the seeds of this project began to take root.

His latest recording and live show, which comes to the Haverhill Arts Centre this Sunday, incorporates the travelling experiences of this relentless road warrior, going back in time to Gregorian chant, Scandinavian, Celtic, Spanish, Hungarian, Mediterranean melodies and rhythms that show, like a geographical map, the scope, width and growth of the Continent winning music, Pine ventures still further with this new work, his first all-bass clarinet set and presents the latest chapter in the fascinating evolution of one of this country's most original musicians.

Celebrating 24 years of award-

Pine's 12th solo studio album, Europa, was released last month and features a powerful multi-cultural cast that reflect their own European stories.

Internationally renowned bassist Alec Dankworth, drummer Mark Mondesir and pianist Zoe Rahman are joined by special guests, clarinettist Shabaka Hutchins, acoustic guitarist Dominic Grant, viola player Amanda Drummond, Cameron Pierre on mandolin, electric violinist Omar Puente and drummer Robert Fordjour to make a unique record that has been (in Courtney's words) over 45 years in the making.

The same names will be joining Pine on stage on Sunday.

■ The show starts at 7.30pm and tickets are £24. To book call the box office on (01440) 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk

Local rockers set for battle of the bands

HOME-GROWN talent go head-to-head at Riffed Battle of the Bands 2011 this weekend at Haverhill Arts Centre.

Starting at 7.45pm, five bands from the Haverhill area will compete for prizes, including time in a recording studio and a gig at the arts centre.

The bands are:

■ Keep 'em Keen, a pop-punk alternative rock band whose vocalist Jade Donno recently sang in the final of Open Mic at the 02. The other members are Mike Cockayne, Luke Mansell-Ward, Rich Wallis and Ben Brennan.

■ Federal Black 40 has a classic rock sound with big riffs with Dan Hudson, Kev Baker, Gary Herington, Bruce Simpson and Gordy Cullum.

■ Spitfire John, who describe themselves as a pop-rock outfit, are Alan White, Harry White, Amandine Paccioni and Tim Fletcher.

■ Eva's Dream are a band who just won't let go of the ideal that rock and roll can save the world;

■ Garage punk rock grunge psychedelic band Lou Roll and the Turds play original punk and have played as far afield as Spain. They have made a number of releases on the Pint a Bread record label.

Tickets, at £5, are available by calling (01440) 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk. Proof of age may be required, no unaccompanied under 14s. Riffed is sponsored by Haverhill Town Council as part of their Leisure for Young People Programme.

Top writers head for Wordfest's spotlight

BY JENNIFER SHELTON

LITERARY heavyweights line up alongside comedians, actors, reality TV stars and the odd national treasure at Cambridge's annual celebration of books and reading.

Star names heading to the city for Wordfest 2011, which takes place from April 15-17, include actor, comedian and now novelist Dawn French, choreographer and TV dancing judge Arlene Phillips, crime queen PD James, poets Roger McGough and Simon Armitage, novelist, playwright and journalist Michael Frayn, British stage and screen favourite Celia Imrie and Booker prize-winning author Ian McEwan.

Other highlights of the festival include the real story behind the Oscar-winning film The King's Speech with writers Peter Conradi and Mark Logue – grandson of Lionel Logue, the speech therapist who turned the tongue-tied Duke of York into the man who would be king, an investigation into the world of Wikileaks and an interactive rock and roll quiz with music journalist and author John Harris.

Dame Antonia Fraser will be discussing her moving memoir

FUNNY GIRL: Dawn French will be among the star visitors.

about her 33-year relationship with Harold Pinter, Maggi Hambling will be discussing her striking and controversial Scallop sculpture on Aldeburgh beach and journalist, author and social reformer Will Hutton, will be talking about his current book, Them and Us: Changing Britain – Why We Need A Fairer Society.

This year also sees Wordfest's biggest ever children's and family programme, highlights of which include former Strictly Come Dancing judge Arlene Phillips discussing her new Alana Dancing Star books, Alex Scarrow, author of the bestselling Time Riders series, who will host a "thrilling history game show", favourite children's writers Ian Whybrow, Louise Rennison and Philip Ardagh, plus workshops, storytelling sessions and a free family fun morning at Arbury Community Centre.

Festival director Cathy Moore said: "This year we have more events than ever before and a range of strands which cover art, history, crime, memoir, education and global issues, as well as first class inspiration fiction, poetry, workshops and events for children."

"Where else would you find journalists, artists, reporters, novelists, economists, historians, a barrister, a reformed criminal, poets, actors, a statesman, comedians, academics and teachers?"

■ Cambridge Wordfest – A Literary Celebration takes place at venues across the city, primarily The Cambridge Union, Cambridge Central Library and the ADC Theatre. The box office for all events is (01223) 300085 and www.adctheatre.com. For details and the full line-up, see www.cambridgewordfest.co.uk.

Young stars on stage

YOU'RE having a laugh – Monkey Nuts Comedy Club comes to the Haverhill Arts Centre tomorrow night.

Take a seat from 8pm and watch Patrick Monahan, Nick Helm and award-winning stand-up, MC and writer, Tom Craine, in action.

■ Alastair Kiernan is the guest of the Haverhill Keyboard Club at the arts centre next Tuesday at 7.30pm. He offers light classics, music of the 20s, 30s and 40s, right through to the hits of today.

■ Samuel Ward Academy showcase their talent in Stars in their Eyes on Thursday, March 31. Pupils from Years 9 to 13 will shine on the centre's stage from 7.30pm onwards.

■ On the cinema front, Conviction (15), screening next Monday at 1.30pm and Wednesday at 7.45pm, is based on real events. Betty Anne Waters (Hilary Swank) dedicates 20 years of her life to clearing the name of her brother (Sam Rockwell) who has been convicted for murder.

The French Reel Culture film is On Tour (15) as a producer brings an American Burlesque troupe to France. The plot follows the troupe as they tour port cities.

CHALET GIRL
certificate 12A 96m

FELICITY Jones confirms her reputation as one of our brightest acting talents in Phil Trill's life-affirming comedy about a young woman's struggle to vanquish her inner demons. The Birmingham-born actress effortlessly slaloms between slapstick and heart-tugging emotion in Tom Williams's predictable yet unabashedly crowd-pleasing script. There is an honesty to the performance, which compels us to root for her embattled heroine as she searches for love across the class divide. Co-star Ed Westwick from TV series Gossip Girl slips into his familiar role as the privileged, pouting love interest. With a minimum of effort on his part, there are palpable sparks of on-screen chemistry between the couple as romance blossoms on and off the piste. Tomboy skateboarding prodigy Kim Matthews (Jones) abandons the sport she loves after her life is touched by tragedy. She settles for a humdrum job in a fast food restaurant so she can take care of her hapless father, Richard (Bill Bailey). In order to earn more money, Kim accepts a position as an Alpine chalet attendant at the highly exclusive St Anton resort. She makes an immediate impression on playboy Jonny Madsen (Ed Westwick), son of wealthy, jet-setting couple Richard (Bill Nighy) and Caroline (Brooke Shields), who are renting the chalet that Kim has been hired to maintain. Alas, he already has a snooty girlfriend, Chloe (Sophia Bush), who accompanies Jonny everywhere. There is the additional distraction of a $25,000 first prize in the Roxy Slopestyle Pro snowboarding challenge, which reignites Kim's competitive spirit. Chalet Girl whisks up a cocktail of frothy romance and effervescent sporting triumph against adversity, garnished with an upbeat contemporary pop soundtrack.

Jones is completely believable as the grief-stricken good girl who struggles to fit into her rarefied new surroundings.

Winter sports fans will enjoy a cameo from American snowboarding champion Tara Dakides.

A hugely entertaining film and another assured step on Jones's deserved ascent to stardom.

Give your grass touch of class

IMAGINE a sea of green velvet devoid of lumps, bumps, mole hills and moss. Now look at your lawn.

Of course, not all of us have the time to lovingly tend our lawns so they won't harbour the odd dandelion or have fallen victim to patches of moss or divots created by animals or children, but there are ways to spruce up your lawn to make it look at least presentable.

In spring, many gardeners consider starting from scratch and laying a new lawn from seed or turfing an area, but remember that the ground needs to be well prepared before you start and that grass, as a rule, is a high maintenance option.

Don't think that a bit of weeding, feeding and watering alone is going to assure you of a bowling green finish. If you are time-pressed, you may have to accept, and start to enjoy, the weeds and moss that will creep into your lawn. But to many, as long as their lawn is green, flat and healthy, that's all that matters.

Lawns are frequently the focal point of the garden and make a neat, defining edge to beds and borders. So when lawn edges become overgrown and tatty, it can have an adverse effect on the look of the whole garden.

Now might be a good time to have a walk in your garden and examine the state of your lawn edges. They are fairly easy to repair and it doesn't have to be too time-consuming a task.

If you have a damaged lawn edge, first cut out a rectangle of turf with a half

by Hannah Stephenson

moon edger, incorporating the affected grass and using a straight edge such as a plank of wood as a guide. Then turn the turf around so that the damaged edge is nearer the middle of the lawn.

The gap created by the jagged edge which is now further into the lawn should be filled with garden soil, sifted to a fine tilth. Then firm and level it to make sure it is flush with the surrounding grass.

Sow grass seed on top, water well and cover the hole with clear plastic sheeting until the seeds have germinated, to help retain moisture and keep birds at bay.

Other maintenance jobs which will greatly improve the look of your lawn can also be done in spring.

Use a spring-time rake to remove winter debris, break up small amounts of thatch and lift the grass leaves and weed stems. Raking can be quite hard work and you can hire special raking machines which are less arduous.

Re-seeding worn areas and bare patches should be done towards the end of March or in April if the weather is extremely cold and the ground soggy.

PITCH PERFECT: lawns are frequently the focal point of the garden and make a neat, defining edge to beds and borders.

If the whole lawn looks thin with lots of bare patches, try oversowing it with grass seed of a similar type.

You may also want to flatten your lawn or remove any lumps and bumps which have appeared over the years. To do this, cut out the turf, remove the soil underneath to lose the bump and then replace it. Fill in any cracks with sifted soil and water in well. Bare patches can either be re-seeded or re-turfed.

A good feed and water will also make an amazing difference to the grass, particularly if you use a mechanical distributor. A fertiliser containing both quick-acting and slow-acting nitrogen is best in spring or summer.

Many gardeners will notice big patches of moss on their lawn, a problem exacerbated by wet weather, poor drainage and lack of light. Improve aeration by regular spiking with a fork. If shade is a factor, consider reducing the canopies of any nearby trees.

Alternatively, if you have moss in a shady area under trees and you don't have much time for lawn maintenance, it might be worthwhile encouraging the moss in these areas by removing the grass.

If your grass is in great condition, moss is unlikely to take a foothold. Feed it in spring or early summer and water well before it shows signs of stress from drought.

Wormcasts are a problem for many and need removing from the lawn with a stiff broom before the first mow.

When the grass is 3in (8cm) high, you can cut it for the first time. But make sure the mower blades are sharp and set them high. Also, take account of the weather. If it's wet or frosty, delay the first cut. And don't leave your clippings on the lawn at this time of year.

New Focus goes on sale

Updated 9-3 from £21,495

SAAB has announced full pricing and specifications for its updated 9-3 model range which goes on sale in UK dealerships next month.

The enhanced spec includes alloy wheels, leather-trimmed interior, heated front seats, park assist and Bluetooth phone integration system as standard on all models.

All MY12 9-3 models now come with automatic dimming mirrors inside and outside the vehicle, electric folding mirrors and automatic rain sensor wipers as standard.

Under the bonnet, two new 2.0-litre petrol turbo engines produce 163hp

THE SAAB 9-3: Order now for free service deal.

and 220hp and include direct injection, variable valve timing and twin-scroll turbocharging. Both of these engines will be available with a six-speed manual and automatic transmission. In terms of CO2 per unit of horsepower, the new manual 220hp 2.0-litre petrol 9-3 Aero Saloon and SportWagon is the most powerful sub 160g/km petrol engine vehicle on sale in the UK.

Like its sibling, the 9-3 1.9-litre manual twin turbo diesel line-up also offers class-leading CO2 emissions of 119g/km in both the Saloon and SportWagon.

Prices start at £21,495 for the SE 2.0t, rising to £30,760 for the Aero 2.0T XWD.

Meanwhile Cambridge Saab has launched a three year free servicing plan.

The free of charge, three year plan, which is worth up to £1,000, is available on new Saab models ordered and registered before March 31, giving customers the chance to drive away a fantastic vehicle without the annual cost associated with the service.

All-new Focus is rolled out

THE all-new Ford Focus is set to continue its success story, which saw the UK favourite enter the March plate-change month as 2011 best seller.

At the weekend, Marshall Ford unveiled the new Focus at its Newmarket Road site.

Priced from £15,995, every new Ford Focus comes with voice-activated Bluetooth, USB connectivity, DAB digital radio, Thatcham Category 1 alarm and a Torque Vectoring Control system which optimises engine torque distribution between both driven wheels and mimics a limited slip differential.

Frugal new 1.6 TDCi diesel-powered versions of the new Ford Focus deliver over 67mpg, while powertrains featuring Ford's new 1.6 EcoBoost turbo petrol engines return more than 47mpg, both on the combined cycle.

First launched in 1998, the Ford Focus has been the UK's top-selling car for 10 years. Latest figures from the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders (SMMT) show the Ford Focus as 2011's best-seller to date.

Nigel Sharp, Ford Britain managing director, said: "Our new Ford Focus delivers a level of refinement and comfort, combined with hi-tech features and connectivity, not found on a medium volume car."

CR-Z Mugen is Honda fun car

MUGEN Euro is developing a highly-tuned version of Honda's CR-Z, which will deliver "Type R-like" performance from the hybrid's petrol-electric powertrain – and may offer even better fuel economy.

This faster, more powerful car will make its world debut at the Goodwood Festival of Speed in July.

The CR-Z Mugen will feature enhancements to both the 1.5-litre i-VTEC petrol engine and the Honda IMA system to boost power and torque, while bespoke brakes and suspension will be fitted to improve the chassis dynamics.

The major engine changes, and those made to exhaust and induction, may even result in greater mpg and lower CO2 emissions during some conditions. However, at this early development stage, final power, torque and fuel economy figures are not yet known.

Lightweight components, including a carbon fibre bonnet, will be employed to lower the overall weight, and the car will use Mugen alloy wheels to reduce unsprung mass.

To improve aerodynamics and give the car an even more sporting look, Mugen body parts will be added, including front and rear bumpers, and a spoiler.

"We wanted to extend the performance of the CR-Z," says Hiro Toyoda of Mugen Euro. "It is already a fun car to drive, with an excellent chassis, but we thought that with more power and enhanced torque delivery it could be even more exciting. However, as with all Mugen projects, we have stayed true to the Honda design and philosophy, and the electric motor is still a vital ingredient to boost performance and economy."

The CR-Z Mugen is a joint project between Honda (UK) and Mugen Euro – the Northampton-based subsidiary of Honda's long standing tuning partner Mugen. In 2009, Mugen Euro produced the Civic Type R Mugen, an extreme, 240PS version of Honda popular hot hatch.

"This will be one quick hybrid," says Martin Moll, Head of Marketing for Honda (UK). "With more torque, more power and Mugen's experience of working with Honda cars, we're expecting great things. It promises to show how hybrid cars can be even more exciting to drive."

At this stage, the CR-Z Mugen is being developed purely as a one-off prototype, with no plans for a production version.

'Type R-like': The Honda CR-Z Mugen.

OFFER: For the Skoda Octavia.

Entry-level Octavia priced at £10,995

SKODA'S multi-award winning Octavia hatchback is now being offered at an incredible £10,995 on the road. This outstanding offer applies to 1.6 MPI SE specification cars and represents a saving of £3,735 (25 per cent) off the normal price.

A generous standard equipment list extends to 15-inch alloys wheels, ABS, airbags, air conditioning, front and rear electric windows, a touch screen stereo with six-CD changer, trip computer and electric heated door mirrors.

The 1.6 MPI (100bhp) engine offers excellent performance and low running costs which, combined with Skoda's engineering excellence, represent the outstanding value for money for which the brand has become famous.

The Octavia was recently awarded by What Car? readers as the Best Small Family Car. Skoda also picked up the award for Best Manufacturer, and came out top in the Auto Express Driver Power Awards.

This offer is limited and is available now. Call Vindis Skoda on (01223) 507507 for details.

CO2 levels in 2010 fell 3.5%

AVERAGE carbon dioxide (CO2) emissions from new cars fell 3.5 per cent last year compared with 2009.

The fall in 2010 means that new-car CO2 emissions have declined by more than 20 per cent since 2000, figures from the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders (SMMT) showed.

In 2000, average new car CO2 emissions were 181.0 grammes per 1 kilometre (181.0g/km). By 2009 this figure had fallen to 149.5g/km, and it went down to 144.2g/km in 2010.

Last year, 56.5 per cent of new cars had a CO2 emission level of 140g/km or less, with 38.2 per cent being under 130g/km and 1.8 per cent being under 100g/km.

In contrast, in 2000 no new cars were under 100g/km, while only 0.9 per cent were under 130g/km and only 8.2 per cent were under 140g/km.

In 2009 (the last year for which data is available) CO2 emissions from all cars in use in the UK fell by 2.7 per cent compared with 2008. This 2009 figure was 7.8 per cent below the 2000 level.

According to European Commission (EC) figures, among 15 main EU countries, the UK – at 149.7g/km – had the ninth lowest average new car CO2 emission levels in 2009.

The average for these 15 countries in 2009 was 145.7g/km, with France having the lowest levels (133.5g/km) and Sweden the highest (164.5g/km).

EC regulations in place for 2012 set a target of 130g/km for new cars by 2015.

The overall plan is for this target to come down further to 95g/km by 2020.

SMMT chief executive Paul Everitt said: "The new products now coming to market demonstrate the potential for the sustained improvement of conventional powertrains, as well as the contribution hybrid, electric and hydrogen-powered vehicles can make."

"The investment and commitment being shown by industry should reassure Government and society more broadly that the objective of low-carbon mobility is a shared ambition."

THE FIAT 500C: One of the vehicles that has helped reduce CO2 levels from cars. Having Elle McPherson, shown here, as a fan hasn't done it any harm either.

Parents 'pass on road rage issues to their children'

PARENTS are passing on road rage habits to their learner-driver children, according to an AA poll.

Some mothers and fathers also set offspring a bad example by drinking, using phones and even falling asleep when supervising learners, the survey showed.

The most common of the bad habits passed on is not using mirrors properly followed by speeding, not checking for blind spots and poor hands-on-the-wheel technique when turning.

As well as getting angry with other drivers, other faults include braking hard or too late and driving too close to the vehicle in front.

The bad habits were reported to the AA Driving School whose director Simon Douglas said: "Learners who combine formal lessons from an instructor with practice with family or friends boost their chances of passing their test and are likely to be safer drivers."

He went on: "But dangerous habits are easily passed on, and it is alarming to see evidence that road rage is being passed on to another generation of drivers."

"Parents should try to set a good example with their own driving and remember to let the experts do the teaching, while they focus on helping their children gain experience."

These are the top 10 bad habits passed on by parents to learner drivers:

1. Not using mirrors properly
2. Speeding
3. Not checking blind spots
4. Not handling the wheel properly when turning
5. Braking too hard or late
6. Driving too close to the vehicle in front
7. Letting the wheel slip through the hands

Road rage: Offspring learn the routine all too easily.

8. Having only one hand on the wheel
9. Criticising or getting angry at other drivers
10. Coasting in neutral

The new BMW 6 Series Coupe: 0 to 60mph in 4.9 seconds.

BMW 6 Series Coupe gets cuter

NOW in its third generation, the new BMW 6 Series Coupé is available from launch with two petrol engines: the 650i and 640i. Both offer unique character from their respective V8 and inline six-cylinder engines through the use of twin and single turbocharger technology to produce even more responsiveness, efficiency and higher power levels.

The 4.4-litre eight-cylinder engine in the new BMW 650i Coupé is unique in that the brace of turbochargers are positioned in the V-shaped area between the cylinder banks.

This design results in more efficient packaging and greater engine efficiency. A maximum 407bhp is developed between 5,500 and 6,400rpm, with peak torque of 600Nm available between 1,750 and 4,500rpm.

The new BMW 650i Coupé sprints from zero to 62mph in 4.9 seconds, with a top speed electronically limited to 155mph.

For a model of such blistering performance and refinement, it is also extraordinarily efficient, with average combined fuel consumption of 27.2mpg and CO2 emissions of 243g/km.

The six-cylinder in-line engine in the new BMW 640i Coupé uses single turbocharger technology alongside petrol direct injection with Valvetronic fully variable valve control. This enables the 3.0-litre unit to develop a maximum 320hp at 5,800rpm and maximum torque of 450Nm between 1,300 and 4,500rpm. This engine propels the BMW 640i Coupé from zero to 62mph in 5.4 seconds and on to an electronically limited top speed of 155mph.

Perhaps even more remarkable are its efficiency figures. The BMW 640i Coupé achieves 36.7mpg on the combined cycle, while CO2 emissions are only 179g/km, proving that at BMW luxurious sporting performance does not come at the expense of economy.

The BMW 6 Series Coupé goes on sale in the UK on October 15.

Prices will be announced at a later date.

Lexus' CT 200h is sector's first full hybrid

THE Lexus CT 200h is the world's first full hybrid to be launched in the heart of the premium compact segment.

With low 94g/km CO2 emissions delivered by its hybrid power system, the new Lexus range is priced from £23,485.

Across the board, all version of the CT 200h are fitted with alloy wheels – 16 or 17-inch according to customer preference – dual-zone climate control, a USB port and Aux socket for connecting portable music players, Bluetooth for mobile phone connection and audio streaming, front fog lights, automatic wipers and dark-tinted rear privacy glass.

The CT 200h's class-leading cost of ownership profile is underpinned by its low emissions performance, which qualifies it for a zero annual Vehicle Excise duty (road tax) charge, plus the bonus of exemption from the London congestion charge.

The benefits extend to company car drivers, who enjoy the lowest, 10 per cent rating for benefit-in-kind company car tax, and for fleet operators, who earn the advantage of a first-year 100 per cent write down allowance against corporation tax. Factor in the CT 200h's impressive fuel economy (68.9mpg official combined cycle figure), and the result is that Lexus is pushing the envelope of what hybrids are capable of.

THE LEXUS CT 200h: Emissions down to 94g/km

Smart's splash of colour

THE latest limited edition smart is set to brighten drivers' lives with a splash of colour and an impressive specification that will leave all with a satisfying glow.

With its vivid orange paintwork, contrasting black three-double-spoke 15-inch alloy wheels, tridion safety cell, door mirror caps and radiator grille, the new model will definitely stand out from the city car crowd. Its eye-catching exterior is further enhanced by headlamps with titanium-coloured inserts and nightorange badging on the door mirror triangles.

The styling themes continue inside, where occupants can sit back and enjoy the ride in sumptuous soft black nappa leather and fabric seats. A reminder to the smart's colourful character is provided by the orange stitching and sport stripes on the seats and dashboard.

Only 235 smart fortwo nightorange edition models will be available for purchase in coupe or cabrio form. Both are available with a choice of 999cc petrol engines – the 71bhp micro hybrid drive, which returns an impressive 65.7mpg (combined) or a 84bhp turbo.

Prices for the smart fortwo nightorange edition start from £9,995.

IN YOUR AREA

Be sure your car is in good working order

WARMER weather might mean you walk or cycle more often, but it doesn't mean you can take your car's health for granted. Spring is an excellent time to perform some basic checks, not to mention getting your paperwork up-to-date.

Your MOT certificate confirms that your vehicle, at the time of its test, without dismantling it, met the minimum acceptable environmental and road safety standards required by law. You can renew your MOT at your local garage up to one month before it expires without affecting your annual expiry date.

While you're there, have your tires checked simultaneously, as even a top Formula One driver would struggle to drive in icy conditions with worn tyres. The more tread on your tyres the better, as it provides extra grip, but the legal tread depth minimum is 1.6mm. You also have to ensure that the tires of your vehicle contain the proper amount of air pressure. A regular check up for your car tires is an excellent idea, and properly inflated tires can cut down the number of times you fill up your petrol tank over a month.

Winter may have taken its toll on car batteries, but some basic maintenance can help to prolong battery life. The top of your battery must be clean and dry, and the whole thing must be mounted securely on its tray.

You can use baking soda combined with water in order to avoid having corroded and loose battery clamps. If your battery is over three years old it's worth having it checked now to prevent a frustrating start to your day.

Getting up to date: Don't skimp on the motoring necessities!

Getting it right: Safe motoring is always the priority.

For all your motoring needs under one roof.....

Potholes misery is not getting better

BRITAIN'S motorists are having dig deep into their pockets as the condition of our roads gets worse.

According to new research from the motorist group potholes.co.uk, funded by insurers Warranty Direct, drivers are paying almost £3million a day – a £1billion a year – to repair the damage to their cars caused by potholes.

The research examined 150,000 car warranty policies over a three year period and found that every year nearly six per cent of vehicles suffered axle or suspension damage resulting from potholes or other road defects. The average cost of repairs was £312 but some bills reached £4,000. The average bill for burst tyres and damaged wheels was £277.

The significant increase in potholes – potholes.co.uk calculated this to be an increase of 39 per cent compared to last year – caused by the recent severe winter is exacerbating the problem. Before they are hit with an expensive repair bill, motorists are being urged to contact their local councils with details of potholes and demand action.

Under the Department of Transport's national code of practice any pothole measuring at least 4cm in depth and 5cm across must be repaired as a matter of urgency.

"This is simply unacceptable, when you consider that motorists pay £46 billion a year in taxes," said Howard Robinson, chief executive of the Road Surface Treatments Association (RSTA). "The government has recently announced an extra £100 million to address the problem of our deteriorating roads but this does not address the real problem which is the lack of real funding to provide for long-term road maintenance not just emergency patch and mend". The RSTA calculates that £10 billion is necessary to bring our road network up to scratch.

"The national economy, local highway budgets and motorist's wallets would all benefit from regular road maintenance rather than emergency repairs," said Robinson.

He pointed out that there is wide range of surface treatments available to ensure long-term road performance. They are fast to apply, generate no or minimum waste, lower the carbon footprint of roads and provide cost economies that allow authorities to get the best value from their budgets.

"The Government needs to understand that proper long-term maintenance offers far better value than short-term patch-and-mend," said Robinson.

"It costs only £2 m2 to surface dress and maintain a road but costs £75 m2 repair potholes. Providing local authorities with the right level of funding in the first place to enable them to properly maintain the road network would be more cost effective than emergency pothole funding."

In the meantime, Robinson called upon motorists to contact their local councils and demand that repairs are carried out: "Councils have a duty to ensure that roads are safe and worthy. If you are unfortunate to hit a pothole and damage your car make sure that you take a photograph of the pothole as evidence for future compensation claims."

Win £50 worth of iTunes vouchers with TyreSafe's latest competition

TYRESAFE, the UK's leading tyre safety organisation, is calling for the public to enter its online competition and be in with a chance to win £50 of iTunes vouchers by taking part in the name game.

That's because it has just 'adopted' a family of four new animated crash test dummies, which will be used to help promote tyre safety. The family will give drivers a host of tyre safety tips, information and advice, but as yet they don't have names.

However, TyreSafe wants your help in suggesting names for the family and the winning entry will receive £50 in iTunes vouchers.

Stuart Jackson, chairman, TyreSafe, explains: "Our dummies, which will feature in a range of online movies, posters and leaflets, are smarter than you might think as they will play an important part in helping reduce the number of tyre related accidents on our roads."

"This competition will be a great way of bringing them to life and help to educate even more drivers about the importance of looking after their tyres properly. We've already had some fun thinking of some possible names ourselves and we cannot wait for the entries to start coming in. I'm sure that there will be some very clever ones."

To enter the competition, simply log onto the TyreSafe website, www.tyresafe.org/thenamgame, to give the family of four crash test dummies individual first names, along with a family name. Full terms and conditions of the competition can also be found on the website.

Entries must be submitted before 5pm on March 31 and the winning entry will be notified by email within seven days.

DEPUTY CATERING MANAGER

The Perse School, Cambridge
37.5 hours per week, 43 weeks per year
Actual salary of £19,350 per annum

We are currently seeking a Deputy Manager to work alongside the General Manager to provide a professional catering service and contribute towards ensuring that standards are maintained at The Perse School.

The role will involve supporting and deputising for the General Manager, supervising the staff counter and pupil tuck shop and ensuring the smooth running of all catering services at the school.

You will be able to motivate a team and lead by example but, most importantly, be flexible as evening and weekend work is included in the 37.5 hour week.

To apply for this role, please email your CV to cateringmanager@perse.co.uk

The Perse School is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all employees to share this commitment.

An enhanced CRB disclosure and child protection screening will be required for this role.

Where people really do make a difference.

Matt's gloss finishes off rivals

MATT Burley sparked the onslaught as Bury St Edmunds St Benedict's Catholic School swamped a robust Newmarket Upper School 51-5.

Man of the match Burley set up the first try for Oli Richardson and scored the second himself – converting both from the touchline. Louis Hicks (2), Cameron Biggs and Tom Gair gave the home side a 36-0 lead at half time and Sam Cunningham, Gair, and Hicks helped the side past the half-century mark before Newmarket scored a last-minute try in the corner.

Burwell Tigers 0

West Watting 6

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14B A SUPER-CHARGED start put West Watting in the driving seat and they now need just four points from their remaining three games to earn promotion and complete their journey from the D division to the top flight.

Earle Lambert and Mitch Burr, who also rattled the bar with a free kick, put them 2-0 up inside the first three minutes and Rob Foster made it 3-0 before the break.

Both Burr and Lambert rammed home Watting's advantage with the fourth and fifth goals before the 'Route One' finale, keeper Aaron Millar – who ensured a clean sheet with a smart diving save – launching a clearance into Lambert's path and he completed his hat-trick with a low shot.

Thurlow 3

West Watting 1

Cambs Mini League, under-10B

TWO goals in the first half gave Thurlow a solid platform to claim their fifth win on the bounce.

Will Wilson opened the scoring with a corner which curled in and Toby Catley cracked in a shot from just outside the box.

Despite coming under pressure, Thurlow made the game safe when Finley Plant headed in a Wilson cross. Watting's consolation came in the later stages.

Haverhill Rov 9

Ely Crusaders 4

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13A BILLY Bush fired a late hat-trick as Haverhill Rovers came out on top in another high-scoring game against Crusaders.

The sides featured in a goal-laden draw three weeks ago, but Rovers threw down the gauntlet when Will Bailey, Jack Trowbridge and Leon Bailey put Rovers into a 3-0 lead before the prolific Chris Lewis reduced the deficit before the break.

A see-saw nature developed with goals from Will Bailey, Leon Bailey and Chideria Nkem-Paul being countered by the defiant Ely side.

However, their hopes of a comeback were crushed by winger Bush's blast.

Shefford & Stapleford Strikers 1

Aztecs Juniors 3

BM Kempton 9v9 League, under-12C

AZTECS eventually came out on top in a hard-fought, entertaining game against a spirited Shefford side.

However, it looked as if it was going to be 'one of those games' for the Linton side, when Toby Goodship struck the crossbar twice, Ben Birch's long-range drive was tipped on to the woodwork by the keeper . . . and then the home side went ahead.

Aztecs were level within five minutes – Tyler Thurgood pouncing on a loose ball before advancing to drive home – and shortly after were ahead, the debut-making Tom Cropper smashing in a close-range volley.

Goodship sealed the points with a goal on the break.

» Football: Halstead League

Pebmarsh edge towards title

PEBMARSH took a massive step towards the Treadfirst Halstead League Premier Division with an impressive 4-1 win at Acton.

It ended Acton's faint hopes of being involved in the title shake-up and means that, if Pebmarsh win their game against Glemsford Gladiators next month, they will almost certainly seal the league crown. That eventuality was aided by Clare Reserves, who held title contenders Glemsford Gladiators to a 3-3 draw in their warm-up for their Knockout Cup semi-final. Elsewhere, Essex Arms beat Punch 68 4-2 and Sporting 77 beat Belchamps 2-1.

Tiger tamers: West Watting's under-14s before their crushing defeat of Burwell Tigers.

Bartlett, Gooch something 'special'

PAUL Bartlett and Frank Gooch dovetailed well to take the top prize at the Captains' Special Event at Haverhill.

Hosted by the out-going captains David Chapman and Sally Price, there was a strong field representing all sections of the club took part in the stableford pairs competition.

Bartlett and Gooch recorded 45 points to pip Jim Bowser and Danny Allen, who needed countback to see off Alan Carter and Jacqueline Condon after both scored 43 points.

Keith Brown and Marian Mercer were the new men's and ladies' section captains.

Other prizes: Nearest the pin – men (16th) Graham Kennedy; women's (eighth) Anna Fairhead.

■ Roger Hartley had two shots trimmed from his handicap after coming out on top in the Bob Hutchinson Cup final.

Against a field of the season's monthly midweek medal winners, Hartley recorded a nett 63 and will now play off 18.

Andy Fish shaded runners-up spot on countback from Eric Armstrong, Fish carding 74-4-70 and Armstrong 81-11-70.

■ Out-going women's captain Sally Price was the comfortable winner of the ladies' stableford, finishing four points clear of her nearest rival on 38 points.

She has also had her handicap trimmed by two to 24.

Sheila Price was next best with 34pts followed by Doreen Darbey, 33pts.

Put it there, partner: Paul Bartlett and Frank Gooch after their victory in the Captains' Special event.

Tractor Girls can't write us off: Spiers

STACEY Spiers believes Haverhill Rovers will give Ipswich Town a run for their money in the Suffolk Cup final.

She was joined on the scoresheet by Penny Everett, Katie Schulz and Kerry Elmer as they defeated Exning 4-1 in the last four to book their place in April 17's final at Sudbury.

"Ipswich play two leagues above us, but if we play our best football and have a decent game plan then we can compete with them," said Spiers.

"They only beat Cornard 6-0 to reach the final – I say only 6-0 because Cornard are in the league below us and it was only 1-0 at half time.

"I'm not saying we've got a great chance, but you can't write us off."

Haverhill had to come from behind to see off Exning in their semi-final, before taking control in the latter stages.

"We went 1-0 down, but we were all over them," said Spiers.

"We were wasting chances, but we came out in the second half after a team talk got us going.

"We equalised after about 10 minutes of the second half and then dominated."

Rovers are hit for six

Fleming's pointer

HAVERHILL'S hopes of finishing in the top four of the Ridgeons League, Premier Division have suffered a double blow.

Three days after losing 4-0 in a bizarre match at runaway leaders Leiston, Rovers were crushed 6-0 on Tuesday by Mildenhall Town, who are now fourth and six points clear of Peter Betts' side.

However, it was the defeat at Leiston which had Rovers scratching their heads.

They fell behind to a good strike, but the visitors were fuming when a home player received only a yellow card for a bad tackle, and then remained on the pitch after seeming to headbutt one of his own players in the resulting melee.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Betts. "The referee didn't act on it (the headbutt) and a minute later they subbed him.

"Rather than playing against 10 men for 70 minutes, they bring another strong player on from the bench, who then won a farcical penalty."

That spot kick was converted to make it 2-0 at the interval, and the table-toppers added two more after the restart.

However, Betts believes helping referees rather than castigating them is the only way to raise standards and feels better communication between managers and referees can help improve the quality of officiating.

He said: "I'm not going to criticise referees and I spoke to the referee for about 15 or 20 minutes after the game, in a good manner.

Massive setback as Haverhill crash to their big rivals

"Rather than slating them, we need to be helping them develop. We felt aggrieved by the things that happened in the first half. Referee decisions decided the game, but we deserved all we got in the second half.

"It was game over at half time and we were poor in the second half. But it should never have got to that stage.

"They showed their quality in the second half. They pay for quality and that's why they're winning this league at a canter, and why they'll probably win the next league up."

Rovers were brushed aside by John Sands on Tuesday, the in-form Mildenhall striker bagging a hat-trick as the visitors were swamped in a miserable first half.

They shipped four goals in a nightmare 17-minute spell before the break, after Andrew Wood opened the scoring in the 28th minute. Tom Youngs and two from Sands put the home side out of sight, although they did not add to their score until Wood added his second 10 minutes from time. Sands' hat-trick goal came in the second minute of stoppage time.

To make matters worse, Rovers are due to travel to third-in-the-table Wroxham on Saturday.

Rocked: Peter Betts has seen Rovers ship 10 goals in two games

WEST Wrattling boss Craig Fleming felt it would have been "an injustice" if they had even got a point from the Kershaw League, Premier Division clash at Hardwick. They trailed to two first-half goals but Anthony Cullen sparked a late revival when he netted in the 80th minute. But they were unable to get an equaliser and Fleming said: "We did seem to raise our game after we scored, but if we'd have got a draw it would have been an injustice."
